nal von minden

Your partner for professional diagnostics

We help you care!

For over 35 years, nal von minden GmbH has been a leader when it comes to medical diagnostics and drug analytics, setting standards in the field by delivering certified products of outstanding quality, an extensive portfolio and excellent customer service and ideas. It is our aim to remain the most innovative company in this field, and your point of call on the subject of in-vitro diagnostics. In order to ensure this, we place great emphasis on research, development and healthy growth.

We currently have five different office locations throughout Europe, as well as several subsidiaries and an extensive network of account managers and field consultants. This enables us to provide you with personal service and individual solutions - wherever you are in the world.

Sandra von Minden · Roland Meißner · Thomas Zander

Quality as a matter of principle

We operate with a sense of responsibility not only because it is our duty, but because it is within our principles. As a manufacturer of rapid tests for medical and drug analytics, we are keenly aware of the impact our products can have.

For this reason, their quality and our service are not only of utmost priority to us, but also a matter that is close to our heart. Since 2003, our Quality Management System has been certified according to both EN ISO 13485 and ISO 9001, and is audited yearly by TÜV Rheinland. Internal audits, a comprehensive process landscape and corrective and preventative action system also serve to ensure that our high standards are maintained.

We help you care! - with outstanding product quality, an excellent price-performance ratio, personal consultants and fast service. We look forward to working with you.

NADAL®

...always the right test!

NADAL® point-of-care tests cover almost every field of medical indication. From establishing pregnancy to providing a possible diagnosis for an infectious disease, and from identifying a potential tumour to diagnosing a heart attack - these are just some of the situations in which our rapid tests can provide assurance.

In addition to this, we have expanded our product portfolio to include molecular diagnostics through real-time PCR (qPCR). The detection of nucleic acid (DNA and RNA) in viruses and bacteria enables a fast, highly specific and sensitive diagnosis.

With our controls brochure, we provide you with solutions for quality assurance.

Our current portfolio is getting an update. Should you need new parameters, or even a custom-made test, don't hesitate to get in touch with us. We are developing new parameters every year and work according to your needs.

To find out more about certain tests or topics, request information material from us.

In our subject flyers, you can find a range of important aids for specific areas such as paediatrics or sexual health. Our product brochures offer a short introduction to individual rapid tests. Patient information leaflets provide your patients with detailed information on specific symptoms.

nal von minden Point-of-care devices

How many of us have an in-house laboratory, or the time and energy to digitalise test results? Point-of-care testing (POCT) and reader systems can lighten your practice's workload. Modern POCT solutions deliver lab-quality test results in minutes, saving time, energy and resources. Samples do not need to be sent to labs, results waited for, or the patient called in for a second consultation. Furthermore, the readers automatically enter the test results into the computer.

We offer a range of medical devices for the various requirements of practices and labs. They aid fast, on-site diagnoses in a simple, reliable way. This is possible by helping with the determination of parameters such as CRP, haemoglobin, HbA1c and cardiac markers, as well as Urinalysis and coagulation measurement - all in lab quality and directly on-site.

For further information, request our point-of-care devices brochure by email at:

Allergy & Autoimmunity

Nuts, blossoming flowers, cats or jewellery – for those who are allergic, some of the most normal things in life can trigger massive physical reactions. Yet it's all in error – allergies are the body identifying foreign, albeit harmless proteins as a threat and going on the defensive. However, it is not only allergies which can provoke reactions. Autoimmune diseases, which prompt the body to attack its own cells and tissues, are also common. In addition to genetic predispositions, causes can also stem from the challenges posed by modern living, such as softeners in cosmetics, fine dust or nicotine. More than 500 different autoimmune diseases have already been identified.

Bacteriology

Until a few centuries ago, diseases such as leprosy, the plague or tuberculosis were seen as a punishment from God. Today we know that these epidemics are caused by microscopic organisms that reproduce independently, and even have their own metabolism. Even today, bacteria – even though so tiny compared to humans – can cause our most fundamental needs, such as eating, drinking and breathing to become dangerous.

Cardiology

The number of heart attacks occurring between Christmas and New Year is always particularly high. A broken heart can prompt the same symptoms as a heart attack. Music improves the vascular function of patients with coronary heart disease, and when they look their loved ones in the eye, their hearts beat as one. Scientists do not yet understand how this can happen. The fact is that the heart lives up to its reputation as the symbol of love and life. It is the engine of our existence, and the circulatory system its powertrain.

Inflammation & Infection

Just about anywhere can become inflamed or infected – the entire body is a target, in fact. In order to overcome inflammation or infection, the body's 'police force' becomes active in the form of white blood cells. They work diligently to eliminate harmful intruders such as bacteria, viruses, fungi or other harmful stimuli, as well as acids/bases, radiation or other foreign bodies that have affected the body. However, they often need support in this. Before a decision regarding treatment takes place, a diagnosis must first be made – rapid tests can be of help here.

Lifestyle

'You are what you eat!', as the saying goes. A balanced diet and sufficient exercise are the foundations of both mental and physical health. Nevertheless, the majority of us prefer sweet, fatty, carbohydrate-rich foods washed down with an alcoholic drink instead of a healthy diet and sport. In addition to this, various medications, illnesses and stress in both our private and professional lives threaten to knock our bodies off balance. It is important to keep an eye on our bodies' signals in order to take counteractive measures while time allows.

Obstetrics & Fertility

The history of obstetrics is as old as humanity. Paintings on temple walls dating back as far as 3000 BC tell the story of the birth of triplets to the sun god, Ra - successfully delivered thanks to the skills of a midwife. Wisdom surrounding the topic of fertility is as old and diverse as mankind itself. In the time of the Egyptians, the fertility god Osiris was worshipped, whereas today we look to various vitamins, proteins and folic acid to raise our chances of getting pregnant.

Rapid tests for sexually transmitted diseases can be found in the following chapter.

Sexually transmitted diseases

'I may have infected you with an STI, get yourself tested.' Patients can send SMS texts of this sort from an increasing number of sexual health clinics. Leading experts in this field have deemed this idea promising, and call for it to be implemented as a standard worldwide. After all, the SMS service combines two of the most important aspects in the fight against rising incidences of sexually transmitted diseases: information and testing.

Tropical diseases & Parasitology

Break bone fever, hand-foot-mouth disease, river blindness, creeping eruption or Q-fever: tropical diseases often have unusual names. Behind these names often hide ominous diseases and infections, which are often difficult to diagnose. The term 'parasite' is particularly interesting. In ancient times, it referred to a person elected by the people to participate in sacrificial meals, their food and drink being at the expense of the general public. When we speak of parasites today, we mean animals such as fleas, ticks and worms, as well as microorganisms such as protozoa and fungi.

Tumour

Tumours and cancer are not the same thing. Nevertheless, even if they are benign, it is usually better to remove tumours as they can press on the surrounding organs. Malignant tumours are always a job for a surgeon, as they develop rapidly and take on a life of their own. From a size of just 1 millimeter, they require their own supply of oxygen and nutrients. To be able to grow further, they connect to the circulatory system, which allows them to spread. For such reasons, early diagnosis is essential.

Urinary tract infection

The male urethra is approximately 20 centimetres long, whereas the female urethra measures 2.5 - 4 cm. For this reason, ladies are much more likely to be plagued by urinary tract infections than men. The bacteria that cause a bladder infection have much less distance to travel to reach their target in women. Urine analysis can help in establishing the presence of a urinary tract infection. It also allows several parameters to be monitored simultaneously and can indicate conditions such as liver cirrhosis, kidney damage and metabolic disorders such as diabetes mellitus.

Virology

The history of virology began in India and during the Song-dynasty in China in the 11th century. It was here that the first, primitive form of vaccination took place against smallpox – a practice that is today known as variolation. The fact that it was viruses that necessitated this was only found out much later. Viruses have only been known to be a biological entity since the 19th century. It has been estimated that there are up to 2 million extant kinds of viruses, though only 3000 of these have been identified.

Waste? It doesn't have to be this way...

Interested in SSL products?
Register now!

Help us to avoid waste and protect the environment - with short shelf life tests (tests with a short expiry date)

At nal von minden, stock is planned in such a way that we can offer our customers outstanding choice and availability without also creating unused and expired stock. Nevertheless, despite best efforts, it can be the case that we have leftover products.

The solution: As our tests near their expiry date, they are categorised as short shelf life (SSL) products and offered to our customers at a reduced price. Depending on the test, SSL products can have up to 10 months left before their expiry date.

How can you benefit from this? Register your interest in SSL tests and you will receive notification as soon as tests that meet your criteria become available as SSL products.

- I am only interested in SSL products that exactly match my usual test format and parameters.
- I am interested in SSL substitutions (including other test formats or additional parameters)
